

Creature Feature

Lots of late night monster movies feature a slimy green monster that rises out of the ocean, crashing and smashing everything in its way. Of course, these monsters are supposed to be scary not silly, but it is hard not to laugh when you can tell that the monster is a man in a rubber suit, and the cars and buildings are tiny models. However, the movie makers do have a sense of humor—the name of one famous monster is a Japanese slang word that means “big clumsy ox!”

Get the taxi to the park before it gets stepped on!

Answers

Creature Feature

